The method of calculating charges is prescribed by regulation and guidance and results in a full economic cost being calculated, including overheads and depreciation.

Only those residents with savings in excess of £26,000 or significant weekly income pay the full standard charge for their care. At present 13 residents pay the full standard charge. Every resident retains at least £24.55 per week in personal allowance.

4.3 Any placements made by other local authorities to these units will be charged at the fee rates noted in Appendix 1.

4.4 Report 222-2014 Social Care (Self-Directed Support) (Scotland) Act 2013 notes the introduction of regulations regarding the waving of charges for support for carers. As noted in the report, account will be taken of this change in the process of implementing the legislation. This will include any considerations with respect to changed for respite care.
