

11 GREENSPACE SCOTLAND (AN212-2005)

Greenspace Scotland is a national umbrella trust established by Scottish National Heritage to take forward the Greenspace for Communities Initiative at a national level.

Greenspace has a particular focus on any vegetated land or water within or adjoining an urban area, including parks, grassland, playing fields, play areas and the countryside immediately adjoining a town which people can access from their homes.

Greenspace is supported by the Scottish Executive and intends to support Greenspace initiatives at a local level within member areas.

Dundee Partnership for the Environment became a member of Greenspace Scotland in October 2004, and has now been invited to accept a seat on the Board of Greenspace Scotland. Dundee Partnership for the Environment proposed their Chair (The Director of Leisure and Arts). It is recommended that the Director of Leisure and Arts be agreed as a Director of Greenspace Scotland.
