3.0 FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS

3.1 The work undertaken by the Education Department to ensure its improvement objectives are met is integrated into the Education Department's Service Plan 2008-11. This work is funded by the Department's Revenue Budget.

4.0 MAIN TEXT

- 4.1 The Education Department has produced a new Service Plan, 2008-11, in which it has set out the themes and targets necessary to improve the effectiveness of the service delivered by the Department. There are ten themes, grouped into three key objectives: Creating the best conditions for learning; Supporting children and young people; and Supporting and developing partnerships.
- 4.2 The Department measures the effectiveness of its performance by reference to:

- a set of annual improvement objectives (all Education Authorities in Scotland are required to report annually on the progress they have made in meeting their objectives in the preceding session, and to publish details of their new improvement objectives);
- relevant elements of Dundee's Single Outcome Agreement with the Scottish Government; and
- relevant statutory performance indicators set by Audit Scotland
- 4.3 This report acknowledges the significant progress that was made last session, especially in:
  - the opening of the new PPP schools;
  - the increase in pupils' attainment in national levels in reading, writing and mathematics in our primary schools;
  - the improved attainment performance across all measures in S5 and S6;
  - the significant reduction in all exclusion measures;
  - continuing very good work of the Youth Music Initiative;
  - the development of information and communications technologies in teaching and learning as one of the pathfinder authorities in Scotland developing the use of the GLOW intranet (GLOW is the national intranet for education in Scotland);
  - the establishment of Parent Councils in every school;
  - the advances in the field of health promotion; and
  - the strong provision for and engagement of our teachers in continuous professional development activities.
- 4.4 The report also sets out the realistic goals and targets which the Education Department now aims to achieve, some in session 2008-09 and others over the life of the Service Plan.
- 4.5 The Department will henceforth report progress on service delivery to the Education Committee, as required in the Council's planning guidelines.
- 4.6 The Education Department strives to ensure that all young people in Dundee are encouraged and assisted to achieve their full potential across a full range of activities, as well as in the field of academic attainment. This report also records the very great range of achievements in all our schools.

5.0 POLICY IMPLICATIONS

- 5.1 This report has been screened for any implications in respect of Sustainability, Strategic Environment Assessment, Anti-Poverty, Equality Impact Assessment and Risk Management.
- 5.2 There are no major issues.

The drive to raise levels of attainment in all of Dundee's young people lies right at the heart of our new Service Plan. It is the key message behind our statement of commitment, in which we make clear our intention to maximise opportunities for all young people, by creating the best conditions for learning and working in partnership with colleagues in other Council departments and external agencies. Partnership working is essential if we are to overcome the difficulties and barriers to learning brought about by high levels of deprivation and disadvantage, evidenced, for instance, by the growing number of children and young people looked after by the local authority.

In spite of these difficulties, the Education Department continues to develop and improve its performance in the different aspects of the service it delivers. In the arts and cultural activities, in health promotion, in the development of robust quality improvement procedures, in our leadership strategy, in our ground-breaking work in the field of Information Technology, in our developing partnership with parents and carers, and in our work to support those of our young people with additional support needs, the effectiveness of our performance has been impressive and remarked upon by external observers, most notably Her Majesty's Inspectors. We have also seen pockets of success in raising levels of academic attainment in individual schools, or at particular stages in the different sectors, but sustained success across the board continues to elude us, and that is why all our efforts and concentration are focused on this task.

Recognition that this is not a task we can undertake alone comes from the prominence given to raising attainment in Dundee City Council's own corporate Service Plan, and in the Single Outcome Agreement with the Scottish Government. Success will breed greater confidence and increased self-esteem, which in turn will help to prepare our young people to take their rightful place as adults in the world of work or further learning; and this is the second great commitment we share with the Council and wider community, viz. that fewer of our young people will leave school without a positive destination to enter.

We are required to publish details of our improvement objectives, of the progress we made in those we set last session, and of those we have set at the outset of our new Service Plan, and that is the purpose of this report. However, the Service Plan is a comprehensive document and I would urge everyone to become thoroughly familiar with it in order to understand the vision and direction the Department is seeking to follow over the next three years. The commitment to continuous improvement is clear, and I remain confident that, with the continuing loyal support of all our staff, we will be able to report real and meaningful progress.

Pupils, staff and professionals musicians and presenters have collaborated to instil a capability for broadcasting in the school. Over 450 pupils and 16 subject departments have benefited from this experience and it has created a great buzz and a rich learning context within the school.
- Restricted Service Licence Broadcasting June 08 Developing from SOUNDTOWN the school embarked on its own broadcasting venture in June. Over two days the school used a restricted broadcasting licence to broadcast shows created from start to finish by the pupils. This convinced the school that it had indeed developed a capacity to continue with this emphasis and its future vision is to combine the broadcasting emphasis with vocational and media education and with approaches to 'Curriculum for Excellence'
- Enterprise Activities Over the past session pupils have been involved in a myriad of activities relating to Enterprise and Determined to Succeed. Many, such as their procurement of funding for the RSL licence came about as a result of our work with Radio Scotland while others related directly to courses being delivered in departments such as HE, Music, Science and CDT.
